SON GIVES HIS LIFE TO SAVE HIS FATHER.

Russell Sliger, an 18-year-old son of Charles Sliger, a farmer living four miles south of Baxter, Putnam county, gave his life in a deed of heroism last Friday, saving his father's life and forfeiting his own.

The father was cleaning out his well and the son was assisting him by drawing the buckets from the well with a rope as the father filled them from the bottom of the well.

During the progress of the work the elder Sliger became conscious of the presence of gas in the well. He called to the son on top of the ground that a pocket of gas had been struck and that he was nearing suffocation and to pass him a rope down into the well quickly. The son passed the rope down to his father, but the elder Sliger was so overcome by gas that he was unable to tie the rope around his body, so the young man hurried down into the well to his father's rescue, tied the rope for him and had him drawn up to the top of the ground by other members of the family who were on the scene. The rope was again dropped into the well for the rescue of young man, who grabbed it with his hands and was drawn almost to the top of the well, when he became so weak that his grip on the rope loosened and he fell to the bottom of the well, helpless.

No one could be induced to venture into the death trap to save the young man and he died in a few minutes. It is reported that one of his sisters wanted to be let down into the well to effected her brother's rescue, but was not allowed to do so.

The surrounding county is shocked and deeply affected by the sad tragedy.

The family is a highly respectable one and the young man who lost his life was an unusually deserving boy.

CLOGGED BLOOD

WITHERS THE BODY

Workers Sick and Weak from Exertion Take Gude's Pepto-Mangan.

Men and women who toil, either physically or mentally, use up energy. When they overwork they use up more energy, and sometimes the blood gets in a run-down condition. Without rest the blood cannot get back to normal, so that it becomes clogged with waste matter from over-exertion.

The clogged blood virtually withers the body. The strained look on pale faces, the thin, bloodless arms, the sunken cheeks and necks, the dead-tired feeling, are the results of stale blood depriving the system of life-giving oxygen.

Workers go to the drug store and get Gude's Pepto-Mangan when they feel weak and run down. They take it in either the liquid or the tablet form. That makes the blood rich and red and drives out the poisons. Life-giving oxygen, carried by the little red cells, renews the strength and builds up the entire system. Look for the name "Gude's Pepto-Mangan" on the package. Advertisement.
